We are very happy to welcome our new review editor on the board for further advancing Cytotechnology (incorporating Methods in Cell Science). The editorial board has decided to extend the editorial board by incorporating Mohamed because we felt that the installation and the professional organisation of a review section is of high importance for us in order to provide high quality review articles in the frame of the scope of our journal to our readers. This appointment is starting in 2008 and it is planned to get at least one major review article per volume at the beginning and later on ideally one review article per issue. In any case we wish Mohamed good luck and a lot of success (there is no doubt).
